

PENN STATE ABINGTON, THE ABINGTON COLLEGE

About the College

Margo DelliCarpini, Ph.D., Chancellor, Penn State Abington

At Penn State Abington, students experience a vibrant college environment combined with the resources of a world-class research university. Located on 45 wooded acres just 15 miles north of Center City Philadelphia, we offer an affordable, accessible, and high-impact education resulting in the success of a diverse student body.

With nearly 3,500 students, Abington is a dynamic learning community where innovation, engagement, multiculturalism, and inclusion guide us. Students can choose from 23 baccalaureate majors and stay at Abington for four years to earn their Penn State degree, or start the first two years of more than 275 majors at Abington and complete their degree at another campus, including University Park. Co-curricular opportunities include undergraduate research, the Abington and Schreyer honors programs, study abroad, NCAA Division III athletics, apartment-style living at the Lions Gate residence hall, and more. We also offer continuing education and graduate programs for working professionals.

Mission and Goals

We provide an affordable, accessible, and high-impact education resulting in the success of a diverse student body. We aspire to be a campus where students, regardless of their starting point, discover pathways to graduation and achievement in a lifelong quest for learning, service, and fulfillment of personal and collective potential.
